In less than a month the sixteenth annual fair of the Eastern Shore Agricultural Association begins and the viding additional comforts for visitors, in perfecting their police regulations and by soliciting exhibits Shore. They are working for excellence too, not in one but in every department and do not propose to have one good day only, but to have every day of the Fair full of pleasing and attractive features. They are "leaving no stone unturned," we are advised, to make it a success, but for it to measure up to the full standard. from every section of the Eastern it to measure up to the full standard they desire, the hearty and active co-operation of the citizens of the county is necessary. They want of course above everything else exhibits from every section, abundantly, in great variety, and of dantly, in great variety, and of as good quality as possible, and we can say in the language of the through us the secretary invites all blind poet: to contribute and to make known as early as practicable the number and kind of entries they will have. Two estimates have been submitted by the friends of Tyler and O'-Ferrall as to the the number of dele gates selected to date, favoring the candidacy of each for Governor of Virginia.. 'According to one estimate Tyler has 120 and O'Ferrall 119 the former has 52 and the latter 165 delegates. Neither estimate can be accepted as correct, and while O'Ferrall seems to be in the lead, his prospects are not as bright as they were leading to another the delegates. The friends of United States Senator United States Senator Daniel, of Virginia, will press him for the vacancy on the United States Supreme Court bench, made vacant by the death of Associate Justice pects are not as bright as they were Blatchford.

Nothing that has been said or done on the silver question has caused me to alter the views held by me when I voted for free coinage at the first session of the last Congress. If it had not been believed that the Virginia Congressman were earnestly in favor of bimetallism, more than one of them would have been left at home last fall, and I include myself in that last fall, and I include myself in that category. The banking institutions category. The banking institutions and commercial bodies are clamoring for the unconditional repeal of the Sherman law, and it may be that some members of Congress will be influenced thereby; but I do not be lieve they can accomplish the repeal of that measure, bad as it is, without giving the country something in its stead. For myself I am willing to fight it out on that line if it takes all summer. The cry that is going all summer. The cry that is going up from the poor farmers who ars now selling their wheat crops at sixty cents a bushel (less than the cost of production) may not be heard amid the noisy clamor that has been aning the noisy claimor that has been raised by the interested advocates of a single gold standard, but those who believe that the intelligent farmers of the country are not interested in the monetary question, and that they will not make their views felt when the time comes to do so, are woefully mistaken. If the Sherman bill is repealed and nothing substituted therefor, there will be a fear tuted therefor, there will be a fear ful reckoning one of these fine days. (Next to court house).

Virginia's Fairest Daughter.

That chivalry which ever charac erizes the true Southerner was never more delicately shown than in the sentiment that prompted the selec-tion of the "most beautiful unmar-ried woman" from each Southern ried woman" from each Southern State as a representative at the reunion of Confederate Veterans at Birmingham, Ala. This is to be a meeting of the South, where the many fair women will combine grace and beauty in effectually portraying some of the important events of the late war in the tableaux of the States. These are indeed fitting tributes to the memory of the past and butes to the memory of the past and the links that bind us to our present peace and prosperity. Virginia could send no lovelier representative than the young lady chosen, Miss Elizabeth J. Southall Clarke, of New-port's News
